ABOUT

Neon Naked offers a unique life drawing event for corporate events, private functions and alternative occasions such as hen parties and birthdays.

Founded in 2017, Neon Naked is an immersive UV experience creating a colourful twist on a traditional idea. It has developed over 6 years with over 1000 classes and is now happening continuously every week in multiple locations in London. The event has been held in many popular venues such as the Tate Modern, Victoria and Albert Museum, Youtube Space and Royal Society of Sculpture.

Described in Time Out magazine as 'it might look like a full moon party, but this afternoon of sketching is an experiment in light, colour and texture. Instead of being static figures, the models become 'living sculptures' covered in reactive body paints and under UV lights. Get some artful club vibes without leaving your seat.'

The class provides a fun and vibrant introduction to creative life drawing. Several different mark-making techniques are taught, from pointillism to continuous line. The participants draw in neon art supplies to a fluoro painted life model who poses with several glowing props. The longest pose is usually around 12 minutes depending on the class, and at the end everyone shows there favourite drawings altogether.

Private classes can easily be adjusted to suit your event whether it's a specific theme, model, or changes in time. Whatever you need, the experience and imaginative Neon Naked team are happy to help create the perfect experience.
